

All seventh and eighth graders get lockers. You will end up getting two lockers. One locker will be in the hallway and the other will be in the locker room for gym class. If you are having trouble opening your locker it's okay. Most students can't open their locker for days. When trying to open your locker ask for help from teachers, peers and custodians. Even eighth graders are there to help you out! Opening your locker is not that hard once you get used to it.

Lockers are easier than you think, especially with these few tips. First, don't forget your locker combo. If you forget your combo then just go to the office and they'll give you it again. Second, don't rip the lock/door off your locker. It's easier to do than you think. After you put in your three numbers and go to twist, don't pull so hard, or then the lock itself will fall off in your hand (and trust me, it's not fun). Now we can't forget third, don't give out your combo to anyone. You might think it's okay to give it to your best friend but she/he might tell someone and then they tell someone and by the time you know it a lot of people would be able to get into your locker. If this happens just go to the office and they'll give you a new one. Teachers can help, too. If you can't open your locker you can go into the nearest classroom and ask the teacher to help open your locker.

Remembering your locker combination is not a problem. Once you remember it, you will never forget it. If it is hard to remember your locker combination, you can write it on a piece of paper and then keep it in your pocket. A locker is like a safe: it has a combination and you put your things in it. For some people a three-number combo sounds impossible. Well guess what, it's not. There are a few tricks and tips to get you through these problems. A locker is important; you want to keep all of your supplies in it. You depend on your locker when you need a spot for your jacket or just somewhere to put your books. A locker saves the stress of having to carry a backpack on your back.

Here are a couple of tricks and tips to help you remember your locker combo. You can write it on your hand or write it on a small piece of paper and keep it in your pocket. A couple of different things you can do are making a jingle for your combo, something that rhymes. Think of a favorite sports player with one of those numbers so you would have three different names and numbers in the end. For example if your combination was 10-6-33, think of players who correspond with those numbers like Eli Manning (10), Mark Sanchez (6), and Nick Swisher (33). There are so many tricks you can do to remember your locker combination.

Any trick people think of in the end that works is good. If you can find a way to remember your locker combination it is good. A locker is a very important thing to have as a student because it saves stress and problems. A locker is a little thing that in the end of the school year turns out to become a big thing. Not many people think about it but remember that the locker is pointless if you don't keep it clean. Remember your locker and always use it.

A locker is one of the biggest responsibilities you'll have in middle school. You'll have two of them: one in the hallway for books and binders, and one in the gym lockerroom to hold your gym clothes. Opening your locker won't be an easy task. One way to get used to opening your locker is to ask for help if you don't know how to open it. There will be teachers and the occasional friendly eighth grader in the hallways on the first few days of school to help in case you need it. At first, opening your locker may be difficult and you most likely won't succeed on your first try. An obvious way to get used to opening your locker is to practice. Practice makes perfect, after all. The days before school, you can go and look around and practice using your locker. This way, on the first day of school you won't have to spend a long time fiddling with your locker. With enough practice and help, opening your locker will be easy.

In middle school we have lockers and when you get your locker on the first day of school, just know that it is going to be hard opening up your locker. Once you start working with the locker, it will get easier to open it. The locker becomes very helpful once you get used to it.

Lockers are an important topic about school. One thing you should know about lockers is to always remember your locker combination! You may want to write your locker combination in your agenda. Probably somewhere where you'll never forget it. This is helpful because if you need to get to your locker and are already late for one of your classes, you won't panic. Second, don't spend too much time at your locker. This is because you might accidentally get pushed by the crowd of people walking past you. Advice to you would be to stay alarmed, and watch out for everything in the hallway.

Lockers are probably one of the most feared things about middle school. In MAMS, you will receive two lockers: a gym locker and a regular locker for your school supplies. What most people stress about is not being able to open your locker. If you find yourself stuck in these situations, then there are a couple of options that will help you. You should definitely ask a friend nearby if they could help you. If there are no friends by you, then you should ask a teacher for help. If nobody is nearby, or if no one can open your locker, then you should go to the custodian's office. Another tip about lockers is to keep them clean. Do not keep food in your locker! This will attract bugs and bugs can get all over your things. A neat locker will help you stay organized at your time here at MAMS.

Lockers are a safe house, a place to store and keep all possessions: Books, supplies, cell phones, etcetera. You won't be visiting it a lot at all - only a few times in the day. Therefore, there is no need to overstuff it with things like a calendar, five boxes of tissues, a second backpack, and more useless stuff. Decoration is good, and should be done on free time. One locker problem is memorizing the combination. Memorizing the combination should take a few days, at most. With the amount of times you visit it in a week, it should be very easy to memorize. There are also other ways to memorize it rather than opening it every once and a while. A few options would be writing it down in a planner, studying it several times, or even keeping it hidden to a certain object you use a lot, like a pen. Writing it down in a planner gives you easy access to it, and you are visiting your planner almost hourly. Studying it can help, as you will have the numbers engraved into your brain eventually. Hiding it in an object you have easy access too works, like inside a pen cap, on the inside of a hat, and more. Second, lockers should never be shared. As nice as it seems, nobody should know your combination at all, nor should you know someone else's. The moment something is stolen or taken, you or someone else could be a main suspect. Sharing also kills the meaning of a locker being a safe house. Lockers are for your personal use, and yours only.

Lockers are an important part of middle school. They give you a sense of independence because you have a place in school that is all your own and no one can tell you how to keep it or what to put in it, it's all your own. Lockers can get very confusing and frustrating at times. Sometimes they won't open, or they break, or you even forget your combination. An important tip with lockers is to NEVER give away your combination. There have been one too many cases in school where someone gave their combination to a friend and either that friend wasn't trustworthy and went into their locker, or even someone overheard them and went into their locker and stole something from them. Another important thing about lockers is to be careful with putting your books or clothes or anything else in your locker. If you jam things into your locker they will get stuck and your locker will break. If your locker breaks then you can't get in and get your books.

When going into middle school, it is the first time you get to use a locker. Most kids are excited to use one but there is a false portrayal in TV shows of how often you use one. Most people think that you use your locker between all classes and you spend a lot of time in there and decorate it with a ton of things like pictures and magnets. But in reality, most people only go to their lockers two or three times a day, before and after school and sometimes in the middle of the day to switch binders. These visits are quick, two-second open and close of your locker. Your locker is not very private because with all the people around you, the door gets pushed opened and closed.

Lockers are a very stressful part of seventh grade. You wiggle, shake, slam, and do everything you can to get them open and shut. But there are also some tricks to teach. First of all, to actually open your locker, you twist right, left, right. You go to your first number while turning right, you go to your second number while turning left, and you don't even have to know your third number! If you entered the combination correctly, all you will have to do is keep twisting it all the way to the right until it clicks, and then you pull it open. It will stop at first, but keep twisting until it pops and then it will be easy just to pull right open. It may take some getting used to, but with a bit of practice, you will get used to it and it will open and close with ease. There is also another mistake many people make, which is overstuffing. Do not overstuff your locker. If you do, when you open it back up again, everything will fall out into the hallway. When you close your locker, make sure your jacket or backpack is not sticking out from underneath the locker or from the sides. If it is, your locker will be extremely difficult to open back up again. Keep your locker organized and things will run very smoothly. Remember your combination and you will be able to retrieve your books in record time.

Lockers at MAMS are either top or bottom. If you get an odd number, you'll be on top, if you get an even number, you'll be on the bottom. People are going to say a lot of stuff about bottom lockers, but don't believe it. Bottom lockers aren't bad; you don't get trampled, and it isn't a struggle to get to them. Sure, having a top locker would be nice, but a bottom is not bad. The first time you try to open the lock on your locker, you might not get it for a couple of tries, but you'll get the hang of it quickly and once you do, it's so simple!
